- On 14 August 1952 troops under orders of the Kwangsi Military District began the destruction of old defense installations in the K'unlunkuan (108-40, 23-06) area. Fortifications to be razed include 4 gun turrets (p'ao lou - 4276/2869), 25 native-type forts, and 6 barracks. Approximately 200,000 bricks and stones will be salvaged.
- troops of the 58 Public Security Regiment are employed on this project. These troops state that the security of K'unlunkuan will be improved by the destruction of these fortifications because anti-Communist forces have often used them as a base for attacks against Communist communications.
